

March 16, 2018 Update

Thank you for praying for Barb last week! She returned on schedule from Haiti last week after completing the installation and training at Hospital de Bienfaisance of Pignon in Haiti. (see pictures below)

We are grateful for the flexibility and willing spirit of her husband, Herb, who, when one of the trunks of equipment was refused as checked baggage due to a new rule limiting the number of pieces allowed into Haiti, offered to drive back home (2 hours) to make arrangements, get clothes, etc., and come back to Charlotte the next morning for the 6AM flight to Haiti with that baggage so she could complete the project! Herb's electrical knowledge proved to be very helpful too - and they returned home together last Saturday.

Ed and Carol will attend a medical conference for those we serve for the next couple of weeks in Greece.

Several of WWLAB's staff are on vacation during this time as well, so please pray for safety in travel - and for health and endurance for those who will cover all of the tasks at the office!

Thank you for praying for all of us!

In His Service,

Carol Bos
Worldwide Lab Improvement

Mission accomplished!

Certificates

Processing Specimens

Running the Easlyte